October is the news of our family.

the life of a benefactor

It's already been four months since I came to Indonesia. I got help from so many people in the process of settling down.

From senior missionaries to missionaries to other organizations, to people I've never seen before, in all the courses I've been through, enrolled in school, and going to the hospital because my kids are sick... I don't know how much help I got.

Everything they say is the same. He helped us a lot when he settled here, so he helped us a lot.

A man who has been gracious must live a life of grace. the grace of Christ Jesus Love to Indonesian souls, I hope you'll let it slip away I pray every day.

Independence Day Festival

Indonesia gained independence from Japan after World War II, just like our country. August 17th is Independence Day because the news was delivered two days later than Korea at that time. Indonesians who were colonized by the Netherlands and Japan take Independence Day very special and hold a big festival. We also participated in a festival held in a nearby village this Independence Day and made friends with the villagers.

We worship every day at the place God called

There's a lot of spiritual fighting in the mission. It's probably because Satan hates the spread of the gospel. Every day, I realize that the only way to win this spiritual war is to hold on to God. So I set a time every day to worship God. They sing praise, share words, and pray with their children.

But I needed a guitar to worship in my family. One day, one of my neighbors brought me his guitar, saying he wanted to give it to my family. Through this, I felt that God was happy with the daily worship and prayed to God.

Start language training _____ 5

"To those who ask the reason for the wish within you "Always be prepared to answer, but with warmth and fear." (Ben to 3:15b)

Missionary Kim and Choi classes at the language school every day. we have completed 2 steps. In the afternoon, we meet Indonesians and talk. I am trying to communicate in Indonesian with people I meet in playgrounds, stores, and neighborhoods.

The Apostle Peter told those who asked about Jesus Christ to always be prepared to answer, so we tries to study as hard as we can to speak about the desired Jesus.

stories of children _____ 6

The first child, Daham, had a hard time with a friend problem. In the beginning, friends showed a lot of interest in Daham, who is a foreigner. but gradually, due to linguistic limitations, she felt alienated and lonely.

All I could do for Daham through a hard time was pray. We told to her that mother and father are not with you in the classroom, but that God is with you. Please pray for Daham.

But recently, Daham has been trying to reach out to her friends and is study hard to language.

Yooham and Jeongham often say they don't want to go to kindergarten, but teacher says they get along well with their friends. They are also learning Indonesian little by little.

They are as a child, so often get sick. so they are careful about food because they often have stomach pains.

Sometimes when I see children sick and struggling, my mind weakens. However, I believe that not only we were called here, but also my children, who is the leader of the family, followed God's will. These children love God, love the souls, and serves all the best, To grow into a field... Please pray.
